MESSAGE THEME & PRAYER FOCUS

"Receiving The Promises"

"God, thank you for pursuing me with healing, peace, and joy. You have created me to live in fullness. I thank you for your promises that come against sickness and disease. Thank you for your promises that give me life and healing. It is my joy and honor to praise you whether or not I see what you have promised."

KEY TRUTHS & APPLICATIONS

Our natural life and spiritual life have been covered by the redemption of Jesus, but we have to have a knowledge of Jesus to walk in what He has for us. All of God's promises to us who are in him are yes and amen. By ourselves we shouldn't qualify for all of God's promises, but by His grace, we do. Jesus' goodness and finished work has already qualified us.

It is one thing to believe in healing, it's another thing to believe God FOR healing. God has done it before and He will do it again. The promise exists which means it's available to us through faith. Without faith for the promises, we won't see them in full if we don't believe like Jesus said.

So often, instead of going to God with His promise we go to him with our problems or complaints, but all of the promises of God are voice activated. God has already given us His word. It's up to us to put our voice to it, say it out loud, repeat it, and believe it. We have to be using our voice, speaking what God says about our situation.

The Holy Spirit came to teach us how to receive the promises of God. One thing that He shows us how to do is stand against the attacks of the enemy. When we first believed in Jesus, we entered into a fight against the enemy. Luke 13 tells of a woman who had been sick for 18 years, and Jesus healed her on a sabbath, a day set aside for resting. When the synagogue leader complained that healings were not to happen on the day of rest, Jesus said that she was a daughter of the King and so healing was rightfully hers regardless of what day it was. As children of the King, healing is rightfully ours.

We can see something happen because of someone else's faith and that should serve as a testimony and encouragement to build our own faith. Once we believe in the promises, that's when we can see them happen in our lives.

Practical:

Find the place where the promise of God that covers your case is written. Are you needing peace? Healing? Deliverance? Find the promise that covers that and stand on the fact that God has said is it yes and amen because those things are found in Him. Read it, read it again, and again. Begin to say it out loud to build faith in the fact that God wants you to have the peace, healing, and provision that is readily available to you.

I am a child of God and healing is for me.

I am a child of God and peace is for me.

I am a child of God and there are good things for me.”
